TREVOR IS CAPTURED; POLICE SEEK JADE LOOT

Cache In Chinese City Is Being Sought By Sleuths

GRANT REMAND

Trial Of Suspect Is Delayed For Week By Court

ONE RELEASED

Companion Of Prisoner Dismissed After An Inquiry

While the police are holding arrest Charles Trevor as the assassin who shot down the Chinese curio dealer Woo Sing-ung and fled with jade jewels valued at Tls. 5,000 efforts of the authorities now are being directed to an attempt to recover the loot which it is said is concealed in a hidden cache in Chinese territory. The police believe that the bulk of the valuables will be brought to light in the next several days and extraordinary developments in the case also are forecasted.

Trevor, for whom a warrant charging attempted murder and robbery had been issued several days ago, was taken into custody early yesterday by Chief Detective Inspector J. Burnside, acting Director of Criminal Investigation, Detective Sergeant J. J. Kilkenny and Detective Sergeant C. Bridger. The man was found in a Chinese brothel in the Hua Hsa Ka, an alleyway off Honan Road near Avenue Edward VII, and a companion with him, Walter Aistropp, was also arrested, but was later released.

ADMITS GUILT

Trevor was not questioned closely concerning the robbery at the time of his arrest, nor subsequently when the warrant was read to him in Central Police Station. Later in the day, however, when he was taken into the British Police Court for a preliminary hearing before Mr. W. King, Police Magistrate, Detective Inspector J. Cruickshank he denied knowledge of the crime for which he is held. The court examination following reading of the charge was as follows:

His Worship—Do you understand?

Accused—Yes, I understand—

Mr. Hartopp—I am instructed by the Commissioner of Police that this accused was arrested this morning and I propose to call evidence of arrest and the police will ask for a remand for some days.

Det. Inspector Cruickshank then gave evidence.

Mr. Hartopp—I think you applied for a warrant on the 7th of this month for the apprehension of this accused?—Yes, that is so.

PLACE WAS WATCHED

And it was only this morning, was it not, that you were able to arrest him?—Yes, this morning about 6 o'clock. Where was he arrested?—He was found in a Chinese brothel at 6 o'clock and taken to the Central Police station where I then arrested him on the warrant.

His Worship—Who arrested him this morning?

Witness—Well, the circumstances of the arrest were that the place was watched .....

His Worship—Let me get it clearly. I cannot go on like this. Do you say you arrested him in a Chinese brothel?

READING OF WARRANT

Witness—No, in the Central Police station. He was brought to the station, where the warrant was read to him. Chief Inspector Burnside and Detective Sergeant J. Kilkenny went to the place.

His Worship—Accused was found in a Chinese brothel and taken to the Central Police Station?—Yes.

Mr. Hartopp—Was he charged by you?—Yes, the warrant was handed over to him and he was charged.

His Worship—You cautioned him?

Witness—Yes, in the ordinary way.

His Worship—Anything said?

DENIES OFFENSE

Witness—He denied doing such a thing. He said: "I never

Woman, 56, Is Oldest Student In Local Schools

The Ming Li Girls' Middle School, West Gate, claims the distinction of having enrolled in its classes the oldest woman student in China as far as is known. She is 56 years old and studies as energetically as any of the younger members.

Mr. Li Chung-tang, head of the Education Encouragement Bureau, is contemplating the conferring of some distinction on the lady in order to encourage other aged women to take up studies.

The oldest male student known in Shanghai was Jui Er-sung, who entered the Shanghai City Normal School during the Manchu regime. He was 60 years old. Because of his determination to acquire new knowledge in spite of his age, he was given a tablet by the Taotai of Shanghai, Chai Er-yuan.

DECLINE IN NEW BUSINESS SEEN IN JULY REPORT

Remarkable Shrinkage In Balance Of Trade Caused By Heavy Exports

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—There was a remarkable shrinkage in the adverse balance of trade in July. Whereas imports in July last year exceeded exports by £76,000,000; the difference last July was only £8,500,000.

This great change was due to an enormous increase in exports (exports went up £10,000,000 between the periods mentioned) and to a substantial drop in imports of raw material, which indicate a decline in new business.

Coal production between January 1 and August 7 was 142,000,000 tons, equivalent to annual reduction of 1,000,000 tons on production in 1913 when there were 100,000 fewer miners.

WAGES HIGHER

Wages in the index trades were 191 percent higher in July than in the June before the war. The working hours of over 500,000 persons have been reduced since January 1 by an average of four hours a week.

It is reported that wholesale prices of some commodities declined substantially in July. The effect on retail prices is said to have been showing since the beginning of the month but it cannot yet be observed by the public generally.

The principal feature of the Board of Trade returns for August is the great increase in exports. These totaled 115 millions sterling representing an increase of 40 millions as compared with the figures for August 1919.

The imports totalled 153¼ millions, an increase of four and a half millions.

EXPORT INCREASES

The principal increases in exports were as follows: Cotton manufactures 14 millions, iron and steel and manufactures thereof five and a-half millions, coal two and a-half millions, woollen goods one and a-quarter millions.

The principal increases in imports were: Grain and flour seven and a-half millions, paper-making materials two millions, and rubber one and a-quarter millions.

The principal decreases of imports were: meat, ten millions, cotton, seven millions. The re-exports of foreign and colonial merchandise amounted to thirteen and a-quarter, or a decrease of nearly two millions.

The aggregate exports of the United Kingdom for the eight months ended August 31 were valued at 910 millions and the imports at 1,351 millions. The re-exports of foreign and colonial merchandise amounted to 167 millions, an increase of 84½ millions.

Heavy Property Damage Is Done By Temblor That Struck Rome

SECOND SHOCK

Emila District Shaken By Second Disturbance Greater Than First

With reports of a second earthquake in Italy and U.S. Naval Radio and Reuter's despatches coming in with new reports of deaths, the Italian disaster appears to have been much greater than was at first indicated. Estimates of the number of dead run into the hundreds and those of the injured number thousands. The property damage is undoubtedly enormous.

Accounts of serious damage to property continue to arrive.

HUNGER STRIKERS NOT TO ESCAPE BY DEATH THREAT

Gravity Of Offenses Of Men Starving Themselves Is Strongly Told

POPE MAY INTERVENE

Rumored That Rome Has Asked Government To Release Lord Mayor

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—The Government's policy towards the hunger-strikers is emphasised in the reply which the Prime Minister has sent to the ex-High Sheriff of County Cork, who appealed to him on behalf of the eleven untried prisoners who are hunger-striking in Cork Prison.

MURDEROUS ATTACKS

Mr. Lloyd George states that ten of them were arrested either for having murderously attacked police or soldiers, or upon clear direct evidence of complicity in such attacks, or other very serious offences.

The Prime Minister points out that they were evidently engaged in a combined effort to render trials impossible, as, although they were arrested on various dates, they started a simultaneous hunger-strike on August 11. The Government is therefore unable to proceed to try them.

MUST NOT ESCAPE

The Premier adds that it is impossible to allow men charged with such grave offenses to escape trial by their own act. If this were permitted there would be an an end to any possibility of enforcing the law and administering justice.

Mr. Asquith has informed Mr. Whitehouse, M.P., that he regards the decision to allow Lord Mayor McSweeney to die in prison as a political blunder of the first magnitude. He fears that his intervention would not alter the Ministry's decision in the matter.

Rome, Sept. 8.—According to the Giornale d'Italia the Pope has interceded on behalf of Lord Mayor McSweeney.

Waichow Is Captured By Kwantung Forces

Remnants Of Military Government Fleeing Canton As Chen Chiung-ming's Victorious Army Nears City; Peace More Remote Than Ever

Private telegrams received by local Cantonese residents yesterday report that the victorious forces of General Chen Chiung-ming, who has been conducting a punitive campaign against the remnants of the military government, have captured Waichow, the big city which commands the entrance to Canton, the seat of the Southern war lords.

Great excitement now prevails in Canton, according to the despatches, Tsen Chun-hsuan, Weng Tsung-yao, Mo Yung-hsin and Chen Chin-tao are planning to leave the city to be at a safe distance from Chen Chiung-ming's roaring guns and bombing airplanes.

The fall of Canton is a matter of days, according to the Cantonese here. The southern capital has already been placed under martial law. Internal peace is more remote than ever as all Wen Tsung-yao's peace propoganda has ended in bubbles. His agent in Peking, Wen Chuan, claims that Canton and Peking have arrived at definite arrangements as to the terms. But the fall of the administration would change the situation.

POSITION STRATEGIC

On account of Waichow's strategic position, the Kwangsi troops, after having been driven back during the last week from the borders to their present positions, have been sparing no efforts to defend the city at all costs.

Stubborn defence of their last stronghold has proven of no avail for after three days of hard fighting, the Cantonese Army succeeded in entering the city through the east and west gates.

Since September 3 the surrounding towns such as Pingshanhu, Tamshuihu on the east and Poklo on the west have been under constant fire of the Cantonese guns and were subsequently captured one after the other.

WAICHOW ENCIRCLED

With the capture of these three towns, the city of Waichow was entirely encircled and practically under a state of seige.

The fall of Poklo was more important for being on the west of Waichow, near the bank of the East River, which is in the line of communication with Canton. All telegraphic communication and reinforcements from Canton have been cut thereby isolating Waichow. When the Cantonese Army captured this town the fall of Waichow was inevitable.

"DARE TO DIE" MEN

Although the Cantonese troops have fought valiantly to capture the city, its fall would not have been so speedy had it not been for the co-operation of the company of "Dare-to-Dies" numbering more than 600 volunteers who had previously smuggled themselves into the city and fought from within the city gates. It was mainly through the efforts of these 600 that the East and West Gates were opened, inviting the entry of the Cantonese Army, who had been bombarding the city from without.

NAVY STANDS ALOOF

The refusal of the Southern Navy to help him in the fight against General Chen and his Cantonese Army has aroused the indignation of Mo Yung-hsin, the Tuchun, who has threatened dire things against Admiral Lin Paochi, the Commander-in-Chief.

BANDITS BLAMED

CHAMBER FETES M. PAINLEVE AT FUNCTION HERE

Ex-premier Entertained By Local Prominent Chinese Merchants Yesterday

M. Paul Painleve, the former Premier of France, was guest at two functions given by Chinese merchants yesterday afternoon. A number of prominent merchants held a reception in his honor at the residence of Mr. Fu Siao-en, while the Chinese Chamber of Commerce gave a pleasant tea-party immediately after.

M. Painleve spoke at both receptions. Especially inspiring was his eloquent address given at the latter function in response to Mr. Ching Chen-ching, vice-chairman of the chamber, in which he paid a glowing tribute to the war laborers of China who fell in the great conflict in France.

At the first reception, Mr. Fu spoke on behalf of the hosts, who were besides himself, Messrs. Nicholas Tsu, Sung Han-chang, Hsia Hun-chong and Loh Pei-hung. Mr. Fu's remarks of welcome were interpreted by Mr. Tsu.

CHING SPEAKS

At the tea of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Ching made the following address, which was interpreted by Mr. Sung Wu-sung, the nephew of Mr. Sung Han-chang, who returned from France recently.

"It is with great pleasure that we welcome this afternoon His Excellency Monsieur Painleve to our Chamber of Commerce. Monsieur Painleve has come to this country as Advisor to the Chinese Government on railroads, and on matters of culture. He has been Premier in his own country and has always been a loyal friend of the Chinese people.

"China has during the past years viewed with alarm the tremendous sacrifices which France has been called upon to make during the great war. As an ally China contributed to France her greatest asset, manpower, during this war. Had conditions in the Far East been different China would have contributed more than that. She would have been glad to send to France not only men, but guns, ships, munitions, food and implements of war. Now that the

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—It is reported from Moscow that Enver Pasha, at the request of Lenin and Trotsky, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Bolshevik forces which are marching on India. The Bolshevik forces in the Caucasus, Persia, Afghanistan and Turkestan have been placed under his command.

Enver Pasha recently sojourned in the Bolshevik headquarters at Smolensk with Trotsky, after having been received by Lenin at Moscow.

It is considered in French diplomatic circles that the principal aim of this new maneuver is to compel Great Britain to make peace with Russia quickly.

WEST SIBERIA REVOLT

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, September 10.—According to reports from Harbin, the Soviet authorities, alarmed by the revolt in West Siberia, are rushing all spare troops from East Siberia including German and Hungarian ex-war prisoners to the scene of revolt.

Fresh Bolshevik and Hungarian forces are forming at Wijneudinsh Kausk. The Harbin press states that Russia will soon be obliged to call on American aid.

Armies mobilised at Petrograd are hastening towards Siberia. Alask hordes and Kirghis troops have joined at Ural region, while the Oreuburg Cossacks in Southern Urals are causing an uprising among the Bashkirs and Tartars.

The revolt which recently broke out in the Samara province is rapidly spreading northward along the Volga as a result of the dissatisfaction caused by the harsh requisitions, mobilisations and bad harvests.

Green military units are formed in the Moscow region to carry on a guerilla warfare to overthrow the local Soviets and to destroy the means of communications.

Reports from Russia indicate that bad crops have resulted in a famine worse than any since the historic famine in 1891.

COX SAYS HIS OPPONENT HAS EIGHT POSITIONS

Harding's Expressions As To League Are Criticised By Democrat

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Great Falls, Montana, Sept. 8.—Governor Cox, speaking here today, launched a first attack on Senator Harding's international policies.

He declared that Senator Harding had at various times taken up eight different positions, ranging from voting for mild reservations to "scuttling the League of Nations."

St. Paul, Minn., September 8.—In the course of a speech here, his first important public utterance outside Marion, Senator Harding dealing with agricultural policy, said the nation should encourage co-operative marketing and should scientifically stabilise prices.

He declared that railroad transportation must be restored to greater efficiency and the tariff revised in order to afford protection against unfair competition. The Senator was vociferously applaued.

LABOR MINISTER DEMANDS WORK FOR EX-SOLDIERS

Every Former Service Man Who Is Disabled To Be In Job Within Year

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 8.—Mr. Macnamara, the Minister of Labor, was present at a conference at the Mansion House today of Mayors and Chairmen of District Councils in the London area and the Home Counties on behalf of Field-Marshal Earl Haig's appeal to provide employment for ex-service men.

Mr. Macnamara, in the course of a speech, said that 5,000,000 soldiers and 200,000 officers had been absorbed in civil life but there still remained on the registers 142,800 men, of whom 18,200 were disabled, and 14,293 ex-officers for whom billets must be found.

NEAR FINAL STAGE

"We are approaching the final stage of our endeavor," Mr. Macnamara continued, "but the realisation of all our hopes depends on the absence of serious dislocation in the industrial field and, if the coal strike takes place, we can put up the shutters."

The Minister said that he did not believe that the men, who tunnelled the strongest enemy positions, were going to deal the land they fought and bled for, and their old comrades in arms this calamitous blow.

Mr. Macnamara denied that the Government were not doing their duty by ex-service men and pointed out that the Government was employing 125,486 ex-service men out of a total of 368,066 and were also employing 37,253 disabled ex-service men or 10 percent of their entire service. He concluded by appealing to every town and county to make it a point of honor that there were no unemployed disabled men by the end of the present year.

great war is over, we look forward to the day when commercial relations between China and France may be resumed in full force. We hope that the long friendship which has existed between our countries will continue forever and that as China becomes a stronger nation through the activities of her merchants and industrialists, France will find in her a constant and worthy ally.

"We regret very much that Monsieur Painleve's visit to China has been so short we hope that he will again visit our country and that on the next occasion he will spend a greater length of time here.

"I have the honor to drink to the success of the great French Republic."

RESPONSE IS MADE

The guest of honor responded gratefully. He said that France will ever remember the valuable assistance given to her by the Chinese in the form of man power. A monument is being erected, he said, in honor of the war laborers who fell on French soil.

M. Painleve then emphasised the important part which railroads play in the development of commerce. As members of the chamber of commerce, he said, his hosts would be glad to know that he came as advisor to the Chinese government on railway administration. For that mission, he brought with him two eminent authorities. One of them has returned to France, but will come back shortly, while the other remains as professor at the Government University at Peking. He hoped that some good would be derived from his trip, short as it is, both materially and intellectually. He then proposed the health of the Great Chinese Republic.

Present at the function were Mons. R. Reau, the French Consul-General, Vice-Consul Crepin, Mons. Lion, M. M. Bergougnoux, Laforest, Borel, Auge Madier and Petithuguenin, Messrs. S. K. Chen and N. T. M. Painleve leaves today for Marseilles on the French Mail liner Andre Lebon.

Three Wise Fools

Tim Frawley is back again. Quite a lot of people seem to know it, and that had a great deal to do with the splendid house that turned out, despite the rain, to witness the performance of "Three Wise Fools."

When Frawley took Shanghai into his ports of call when outward bound to India, he made such a hit with the comedy, which we all enjoyed seeing last night, that he had to repeat it again and again. It was but a forecast of what was to come. "Three Wise Fools" has been one of the trump cards in the company's pack. It has always scored, and the anti has been full.

Tim Frawley is just as young as ever. Perhaps he is just a wee bit more expansive in the region of his bottom waistcoat button, but it is an improvement. He looks more benevolent than ever, and his voice still has the sympathetic timbre that brings the tears to the eyes when they are needed in the progress of the story. "Three Wise Fools" has already been written about in these columns, but one point is worth repeating. The delightful play is the big success it is because Tim Frawley has a big part in it. Then there is Henry Crosby. He is back again with his fine face, his head of silver hair, and his spirit of joyous youthfulness. He looks fine, and he plays just as finely as ever.

The other of the "Three Wise Fools" is a new comer to the company. We have seen him here before with Charles Howitt. It is Messenger-Bellis. He fits into the combination perfectly, and his portrayal of "Trumbell" calls for unstinted praise.

Albert Morrison is changed. What has he been doing? He left us playing juvenile leads with a rather large size in belts. He has been taking course with Sandow, or Muller, or What-Not, anyhow he has arrived minus the appendage which supported his belt, and appears quite slim, very neat, and as fit as the best of fiddles. He took his original part and brought out of it everything that could possible be extracted. He is very welcome among as again.

Little Miss Claribel Fontaine was delightful as "Miss Fairchild." I cannot remember whether she took the part on her previous appearance here but she certainly gave an excellent interpretation of it last night, and the big audience were justly generous in their appreciation. Vere Mathews, Miss Leslie Virden, Gordon Blyth, Miss Olive Stevens are all old friends, who did all that was required of them in minor parts. N. Michael and Chas. Osborne are new, but they plainly show that they are worthy of Frawley traditions.

Tonight "Lightnin" will be played. Frawley has a great part. The comedy is still running in New York and looks like beating all records there.

tchong by the Yunnanese. All the Kwangsi and Yunnan troops supporting the Administration have been brought from the West River and Kiungchow in order to defend Waichow.

PRESS CENSORED

The censorship of the press is very severe and the Canton Press Association has decided to refuse all official communiques relative to the present conflict regarding them as unreliable. Non-members of the Association are still handling the Government news. Several editors have left Canton to avoid persecution. Anti-Chen propaganda is being freely distributed.

General Wai Wing-chang, the Kwangsi commander has arrived at Shiuhing from Kwangsi to replace Lam Foo, the Defense Commissioner, who has been ordered to the East River.

The exodus from Canton continues. General Moh Yung-hsien has forbidden officials or military commanders to send their families away.

PREDICT EARLY PEACE

Peking, September 10.—Chin Yung-peng's visit to Tientsin is said to have materially advanced the prospects of peace and it is confidently asserted that peace with Canton is practically assured.

Terms have been telegraphed to Generals Lu Yung-ting and Tsen Chun-hsuan, while Generals Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun have also telegraphed to General Tang Chi-yao, informing him that peace with Kwangtung and Kwangsi is in sight and asking for his co-operation in the general scheme of unification.

There is no doubt that Generals Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun are earnestly aiding the Premier's peace efforts, though it is doubtful whether General Tang Chi-yao will acquiesce at present. If he does not, other measures will be adopted.

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Sept. 6.—Another step has been taken toward the realisation of the People's Convention, by the organisation of what is called the National Convention Consulting Association. The President of the Association is the ex-Minister of Education, Chang Lan, the Vice-President is Chief Justice Wang Tseng-whei. The new Association is receiving wide support, especially from the National University faculty members and others of the more liberal Chinese in the Capital and elsewhere.

The purpose and organisation of the Association are outlined in the following manifesto, which has just been issued.

THE MANIFESTO

Since the inauguration of the Republic, nine years have passed during which the people have suffered much from maladministration and the brutality on the militarists in whose hands the reins of the Government have been misplaced. The state of affairs prevailing in the country is so deplorable, that words fail to portray the lamentable condition of the common people.

Such has been the state of things into which the Government has been permitted to drift.

Yet the standards of the people are getting higher and higher day by day, and in the same manner, the intelligence of the people is rapidly increasing. But their suffering on the other hand are also going from bad to worse day by day.

Yet with such public standards and such greater wisdom on the part of the people, nothing beneficial has been accomplished towards the elimination of the difficulties of the people and towards the elevation of the country. Why? The answer is simple and plain.

POWER MISUSED

It is because the people have not been able to accomplish their desire, to get rid of what they generally believe to be evil elements in Government. The people could not accomplish this, because the reins of Government have been held and misused, by a small grant composed of certain infamous statesmen and militarists is the underlying cause to which the sufferings of the people may be traced. Thus, while on the one hand, the men in question have been robbing the Government to satisfy their selfish aims and private interests, the people, on the other, have suffering from all sorts of calamities without any way of expressing their grievances. For such reasons as these, endless disquietude and chaos have prevailed in the country.

PARLIAMENTS UNREPRESENT

That Parliament should represent the genuine opinion and inclination of the people is an incontestable fact. Since the separation of the South from the North, it did seem that both the Old and New Parliaments, notwithstanding the fact that they were both de facto Parliaments, might well represent the genuine opinion and inclination of the people of the South and North respectively. But to our surprise, these Parliaments have completely lost touch with the people in the ninth year of the Republic.

The tie which used to bind them together has broken and there is no connection between the two such a state of affairs is accountable for all the calamities which have befallen the people.

NEW BODY HAS FAILED

In the first instance, let us dwell upon the legality of the New Parliament. In this connection, we will not even touch upon the important points indicating that the New Parliament is founded on an illegal basis, and does not represent all the Provinces of the Republic.

But it should not be lost sight of that the New Parliament has been a mere farce, since it only represented the policy and selfish ends of one or two political parties.

Nothing like a genuine public inclination or general opinion existed in the New Parliament. In support of our contention we will cite the cases in which national natural resource such as mines and railways as well as the Shantung issue are involved. In all these great controversies there has been a deep connection with one or two political parties. For this reason not even a single interpellation has been addressed to the Government demanding on behalf of the people adequate explanations. That is why we are led to the conclusion that the New Parliament does not in any sense represent the people.

THE OLD LAWMAKERS FAILED

Next, let us turn our attention to the Old Parliament. In this connection we will not attempt to reiterate the important points touching the illegal continuance as well as the constant change of policies by the Old Parliament, as such points as these are incontestably directed to the discredit of the Old Parliament. Now can any one offer a satisfactory answer to the question as to whether or not the Old Parliament elected in the 2nd year of the Republic is qualified to represent the genuine public inclination of the people in the 9th year. Moreover, since its inauguration, the Old Parliament has never attended to the important question of enacting a constitution. Under the disguise of upholding of laws and constitution, the Old Parliament has contributed nothing towards the legitimate privileges to which the people of the Republic are entitled. Furthermore, the Old Parliament has lent but a deaf ear to the cry of the people for elimination of their sufferings. How can the Old Parliament represent the genuine inclination of the people.

Therefore, it would be futile for us to attempt to deceive ourselves or to flatter our fellow countrymen that both the New and the Old Parliaments actually represent the people of the country. Neither of them can be considered as a legal and therefore genuine organ to echo the general opinion of the great masses throughout the Republic.

FEAR DANGEROUS OUTBREAK

Since the people have no quarter to which to appeal their desire of removing the harmful characters in the Government can not be accomplished. To depend upon Parliament to transmit their voice would be useless. However, we will avail ourselves of this opportunity to state that in view of the fact that the general standard of the people are daily rising, and that the intelligence of the people is rapidly increasing, the day will come when the people secure a real voice in the government.

Therefore, for the sake of the people as well as for the welfare of the country, it should be our public duty to devise some adequate means by which a dangerous outbreak of the people may be prevented. The calling of a grand assembly of the people, or in other words the convening of a citizens' convention, will serve our purpose.

NEW TYPE NEEDED

That the calling of a grand assembly is advocated by all quarters nowadays is most comprehensive. But it must be remembered that appropriate measures should be adopted by which only desirable results may be accomplished, in the way of elevating the country from the Valley of Death.

It is most unwise to consider that the mere name of a Grand Assembly is enough to elevate the country. The word Parliament is in itself an expression. In the same manner, the word Citizens' Convention is another expression. Just because the Parliament has failed to execute its proper functions in this representation of the people the outcry for a Citizen's convention has now been loudly advocated.

Will the Citizens' Convention be convened in the footsteps of the two de facto Parliaments in the past? It should not be forgotten that the two Parliaments in the past were all elected by the people and the members thereof were citizens of the Republic. But the acts of both these bodies convinced of their inability to represent the true inclination of the people. If the Citizens' Convention to be convened is to bring similiar results, them what is the difference between the two de facto Parlia-

RUSSIANS DENY WARSAW DEFEAT INJURED CAUSE

Reply To Balfour's Note By Tchircherin Made Public In London

CHARGES INSULTING

Foreign Officer Discusses Proposal For Formation Of Civic Militia

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 9.—Tchircherin's reply to Mr. Balfour's note (cabled on the 2nd inst.) is now published. The Russian Foreign Commissary expresses the opinion that Mr. Balfour is under a delusion as regards the Russo-Polish military situation, and endeavors to show that the setback to the Russian forces before Warsaw was merely the unsuccessful result of one particular operation.

He argues that the situation there has even altered to the advantage of the Soviet, because reinforcements have been despatched to the Red forces.

FEELS INSULTED.

Tchircherin charges Mr. Balfour with repeating the accusations, which he regards as insulting, in relation to the non-disclosure of the proposal for the formation of a Polish civic militia.

Referring to Mr. Balfour's observation in regard to the supposed failure of the Soviet to increase the welfare of the poor, Tchicherin launches forth into a high-sounding description of the opportunities afforded to the masses to enjoy the marvels of art which were formerly withheld from them. He tells how palaces have been converted into great popular clubs, where elevating entertainment abounds.

did such a thing." I then searched him.

Mr. Hartopp—What did you find?

Witness—I found $98, a razor, and other articles.

Mr. Hartopp—The Police desire a remand for a week in order to make further inquiries. Is that so?

Witness—Yes.

The statement of witness was then read over to accused by the Magistrate, who asked him if it was correct.

Accused—Yes.

His Worship—Do you wish to ask any questions?

Accused—No.

His Worship—What have you to say to the request for a remand?

Accused—I know absolutely nothing about it.

His Worship—No. The Police are asking for a remand. What have you to say to that?

Accused—I have nothing to say.

His Worship (to Mr. Hartopp)—Do you want as long as a week?

Counsel—Yes, I think so. It would be better.

His Worship—I mean that the Police have had this case for some time already.

Counsel—They have just been able to arrest him. Until he was arrested they were a little bit hampered in these inquiries. They did not know who it was at all until this morning.

His Worship (to accused)—The remand must be in custody. You have no objection?

Accused—I cannot help it. I know absolutely nothing about it.

WARNS PRISONER

His Worship—This is a very serious charge. Please do not say anything more. At this stage it is best for you to keep your mouth closed. It is a serious charge and you are undefended. If you have any friends you had better try to get their help.

Mr. Hartopp asked that the remand be in the custody of the Municipal Police.

His Worship—The reason being the question of identity?

Counsel—Yes.

His Worship—Very well, Trevor, I have told you I have to grant this remand in the custody of the Municipal Police for one week. If you have any friends I warn you had better get in touch with them.

Accused—Will I be allowed to write to them?

His Worship—Of course. Your letters will be seen by the Police.

Det. Inspector Cruickshank—Every facility will be given to him to see his legal man or to send letters.

ASKS FOR DETAILS

Accused—May I be allowed to ask when this man was shot?

His Worship—Yes. It was on August 30.

Accused—Was it day time or night time?

His Worship—Any objection, Mr. Hartopp?

Counsel—No.

Det. Insp. Cruickshank—Between 3 and 4 in the afternoon.

Accused—I was in my home writing letters at that time.

His Worship—There will be a remand for one week in the custody of the Municipal Police.

ONE OTHER ARREST

In connection with the case George Pappas, an unemployed Greek residing at the Hanbury Institute was also arrested yesterday. He was at first taken into the French Consular Court, but Consul-General Reau declined to accept jurisdiction in the case and the prisoner was taken to the Mixed Court where his case along with that of Trevor was continued for a week. The police believe that Pappas has been in communication with Trevor since September 30, when Woo Sing-faung was lured from his curio shop with the package of jewels and shot down at the entrance to a dwelling on Great Western Road.

It has been learned that Trevor formerly lived at a Hongkew address under the name of Trevor, but in the period immediately preceding the robbery he lived at No. 1 Carter Road under the name of Ernest Norman. He is 29 years old and has been in Shanghai for about three months, coming here from Tientsin.

BRITISH SUBJECT

Though born in the state of Texas, in the United States the police are informed that the suspect took out naturalisation papers as a British subject several years ago. Before he came to the Orient he was in Australia for a time, going from there to the United States. He sailed from San Francisco in an American schooner some months ago and lived for a time in Japan whence he shipped on another boat as fireman for Tientsin. Since he came to Shanghai he has been without employment most of the time, though he is said to have held the post of teacher in recent week in a small Chinese night school.

News Brevities

Through inadvertence in a report of an address that was given by Mr. Carl Seitz before the Shanghai Rotary Club on Thursday it was stated that Mr. Seitz was General Manager of the China Import and Export Lumber Company, a post he formerly held. Mr. Seitz is now General Manager of the China Pacific Company, having resigned from the services of the China Import and Export Lumber Company on March 1 last.

INTERPORT CRICKET MATCH FEATURED BY BOWLING AND BATTING EFFORT OF RASMUSSEN

Game On S.C.C. Ground Played In Gloomy Weather; Ollerdessen And Wainwright Stars At Bat For Shanghai

The clerk of the weather did his level best to spoil sport yesterday, when the Shanghai Interport team entertained the eleven from Tientsin on the S.C.C. ground. But despite his efforts, a fine exhibition of cricket was witnessed by the crowd that turned out.

Harry Ollerdessen by scoring sixty placed his side in a strong position, and then when Wainwright followed it up with a brilliantly hit 62, the prospects of the local team were indeed rosy. But fine as these performances were, the one name which will be uppermost in cricketers minds at present will be that of O. D. Rasmussen.

The old Shanghai ball player and cricketer came here with the Tientsin string. He bowled throughout the Shanghai innings, putting down 32 overs and he always had the batsmen on the watch, and then when things looked black for his side, he went in, and in the most confident way began to send our best bowlers' deliveries to all parts of the field.

By hitting Billings out of the ground twice in the one over, he has probably given our stalwart captain quite a new feeling. The result of Rasmussen's play, when stumps were drawn owing to bad light at 5:30 p.m., was that his side can now cry "Honors are even."

SHANGHAI'S ADVANTAGE

Shanghai were all out when the score board was short of the double century by a single, and Tientsin had 62 to their credit for the loss of three wickets. Rasmussen was responsible for 54 of these.

With the sky still looking unpleasant the captains, Billings and Alabaster, soon after eleven o'clock, tossed for innings. Billings won, and naturally elected to bat. He sent in Hayward and Ollerdessen.

Rasmussen from the bandstand end attacked Hayward, who scored a single from the first delivery. Rasmussen bowls a medium fast ball, and gets a good deal of work on it. Occasionally he found a spot which made the ball get up in a dangerous manner.

Douglas, who bowled from the pavilion end, is a left arm slow bowler. He kept a good length throughout, and seldom allowed

FINE FIELDING

Very early in the game the spectators began to comment upon the fielding of the visitors. As the contest progressed, so also did the fielding demand more and more admiration. It was an absolute object lesson.

Throughout the four hours that they were in the field, never once could any of the Tientsin team be accused of slacking. They one and all took the ball cleanly, and returned quickly. No runs were given away, and no catches were refused.

Even in a team of such excellent fielders the work of A. Paul stood out. He was generally to be seen in the long field, and the way he chased the ball, and saved boundary after boundary, not only called for the loud applause of the spectators but also saved scores of runs for his side.

With the score at 18 Shanghai experienced their first reverse. Hayward touched a ball on the off from Rasmussen, and it was held in fine style by Hagen. Muriel came in next and looked as if he was going to stay with Ollerdessen for the day, but he hit a ball to cover and it was taken by Pennell.

Two wickets down for 44 did not look too good. Quayle followed, but when he had only scored five he sent a fast ball into the slips and Hagen took it high up with his left hand. It was one of the finest catches seen this season.

With the board signalling 61 Spencer went in, but was plainly uncomfortable. The wicket was doing all sorts of wierd things, and Rasmussen was mixing his deliveries up a lot. A fast ball beat the Sub-Dean and he had to return to the pavilion when only eleven stood to his credit.

OLLERDESSEN STARS

88 for four and the wicket getting worse. Not at all good.

The one hope of the side up to the present was Harry Ollerdessen. He was playing like a book. He seemed as safe as the Rock of Gibraltar, and all the time he was scoring with the best of strokes. Wainwright took Spencer's place and at once became aggressive, and with Ollerdessen seemingly set, and the new comer confident, the faces of the local players became much brighter.

But at 109 Douglas sent a ball which Ollerdessen hit, and Alabaster, the visitors captain, watching in the slips, took the offer and Harry wended his way to the pavilion amidst the well deserved plaudits of both teams and spectators. His innings was undoubtedly the finest thing that the Shanghai team had to offer. He never made a mistake until Alabaster made him pay.

Hansell following did not last long and his place was taken by Leach. Wainwright at this period of the game delighted the crowd by some fine hitting. Three sixes in fairly quick succession gave the scoring board a healthy appearance and the batsman saw Leach, O'Hara and Billings come and go before he himself hit a ball to the long field which Paul caught.

Thus with the score at 199 Shanghai were all out.

TIENTSIN'S INNINGS

It has already been said that the fielding was great. It is worth repeating. The bowling of both Douglas and Rasmussen was always good enough to keep the batsmen respectful. To bowl 32 overs, of which 11 were maidens, and to take 6 wickets at a cost of only ten apiece, is an achievement of which any bowler might be proud, especially on a day when the ball must have been always difficult to grip despite the ample supply of sawdust. That was what Rasmussen did.

During the interval, when the teams and the spectators alike partook of tea, the rain started to come down steadily. At one time it looked as if the game would have to be called off for the day, but by keeping the pitch as dry as garden seats and tarpaulin is able, the Tientsin team was standing ready to take the wicket when called upon. The call came, and Pennell and Puckle went out to face Billings and O'Hara. The start was disastrous. The first wicket was down for three, the second followed for 6, and then came Rasmussen. The rest of the game is all about his work. Crawfurd stayed with him, and is still with him, and so with three wickets gone and sixty-two runs on the board, the game will be continued today at 10:30 a.m.

OVERCAST SKIES NO DAMPER FOR SWIMMING GALA

Every Seat Filled At Opening Night Of Club's Annual Aquatic Exhibition

MEARS WINS 100-YARDS

Judges And Other Officials Directing Competition Are Given Praise

Swimming is a fortunate sport, compared with say cricket, in that it does not depend so much on the weather, hence in spite of the rain yesterday the first evening's sport of the annual swimming gala and aquatic sports of the Shanghai International Swimming Club was witnessed by a full house. The seating accommodations of the municipal Baths were taxed pretty well to the limit.

This is the fifteenth annual gala organised by the S.I.S.C. and bids fair to excell all preceding functions of its kind held under the auspices of this body, the only one devoted exclusively to the interests of natation in Shanghai.

As forecasted in these columns no effort was spared by Mr. J. H. McGregor and his hard-working fellow committeemen to ensure the comfort of their guests, and the lengthy program was judiciously varied, so that practically all forms of prowess in the water had a chance.

What with the two championships of Shanghai, the 880 yards and the Diving, and the two club championships, the 100 yards and the Gutierrez Cup competition, it will be seen that the card was extra classy, though as regards this matter, tonight's will not be less attractive, including as it does the 220 yards and Plunge for Distance championships of Shanghai, and interclub events, relay race and water polo match between the S.I.S.C. and the Rowing Club, the latter two of which especially may be relied upon to furnish a plentiful supply of excitement.

GALA OFFICIALS

The officials who did duty as judges and all contributed to the evening's success were as follow:

Judges: Messrs. J. A. S. Alves, E. T. Byrne, R. W. MacCabe and Dr. A. Stanley.

Umpire: Capt. V. J. Holland, M. C.

Starter: Mr. T. Mellows.

Timekeepers: Messrs. J. W. Gande and C. B. Stormes.

Check Starters: Messrs. W. F. Hamlin and F. S. Bridges.

Handicappers: Mr. J. H. McGregor and C. J. Encarnacao.

Whips: Messrs. G. R. H. Hendriksen, C. J. Encarnacao and A. Gutierrez.

Programs, Printing and Advertising: Messrs. J. H. McGregor and W. F. Hamlin.

Music, Decorations and Illuminations: Messrs. W. F. Hamlin, J. H. McGregor and A. Gutierrez.

BIG THRONG OUT

At 9:15 there was not a seat to be had last evening; so intending spectators tonight must be early in attendance. The bath building looked its best with festoons of bunting across the water and Chinese lanterns along both sides and ends and bamboo foliage overhead.

Mears got the 100 yards Club Championship again, in 67 seconds, Tordy not being very far off.

The Diving Championship was secured by Gutierrez, Brown being second.

ments and a new Citizen Convention?

In our opinion, the Citizens' Convention should completely reverse the practices of the two Parliaments. Failing this, it will be futile for the people of this country to hope for a true organ through which their voice can be heard by the ruling few. Things half done are never done well.

PLANS OF ASSOCIATION

With a view to avoiding the recurrence of such evils, we will avail ourselves of this opportunity to offer our humbler suggestions as follows:

First we should concentrate our attention on the steps to be taken to call a grand assembly and bring about a general election. When this has been accomplished, we should then proceed to discuss the limitation and restriction of the power of election, so as to prevent undesirable consequences like those which have taken place in the past. All these are most essential elements in the way of bringing about a genuine representative body throughout the medium of which a good government can be called into existence. Thus, there are many serious questions to be considered before we actually have a Citizens' Convention.

After the Citizens' Convention has been legally arranged for true representatives can then be elected by the people to represent the people. When this has been attained, then the question of elevating the country and the people into a safe and peaceful state of happiness can be realised of late, this great issue is arresting the serious attention of quarters which profess to promote the interest of the people and the welfare of the Republic.

Various suggestions and all kinds of opinions have been expressed by the public. It shows therefore that this important question is of great interest to the 400,000,000 people of the Republic.

OUTLINE IS GIVEN

In order to cope with the situation, we now propose a public body styled the National Convention Consulting Association with the following general outlines and draft regulations:—

Article 1.—This Association will be styled the National Convention Consulting Association.

Article 2.—The purpose of this Association is to unite all minds on the discussion of suggestions and opinions from all quarters relating to the convening of the Citizens' Convention.

Article 3.—Any one who approves of the principle of this Association can become a member of this Association, through the introduction of two or more members and after the approval of the board of directors committee has been obtained.

Article 4.—This Association will be placed under the administration and superintendance of one President and an adequate number of Directors. This Association will have the following five Branches, each of which will be placed under the control of a director:

(1) General Office.
(2) Secretariat.
(3) Finance Department.
(4) Social Affairs Department.
(5) Editorial Department.

Article 5.—The President of this Association is invested with full authority to control the administration of this Association. The President is ex-officio the Chief Representative of this Association. Directors have their respective duties; such duties will be defined.

ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

Article 6.—The President and the Five Directors are to be elected by the members of this Association. Associates are to be nominated by the President in consultation with the Directors.

Article 7.—The President of this Association will preside and summon general meetings and meetings of the Board of Directors. In the event of a motion being made by 20 percent or more of the members of the Association, and after the approval of the Board of Committee has been obtained, provisional meetings may be held. Questions are to be decided upon by majority of members attending meetings.

Article 8.—Members of this Association are to voluntarily contribute adequate funds towards the maintenance of this Association.

Article 9.—The draft regulations prepared by this Association may, upon motion being made by 20 percent or more of the members, be brought up for modification by the President.

Unparamounting The Paramount Issue

ACCORDING to The New York Times of August 12, the Republican managers are trying to side-track the paramount issue of the campaign, that of The League of Nations. This, according to The Times, is due to the discovery that Republicans all over the country are dissatisfied with the attitude of the party towards the League as expressed in its platform. But let The Times tell it:

"It's a fine day," an indiscreet acquaintance once ventured to remark to Martin Van Buren. "It appears to be, so far," replied that model of caution and moderation. Our Republican friends now find that they have been too rash. They welcomed joyfully "the great and solemn referendum" on the League of Nations. That was the cardinal, the "clear-cut" issue, roared by a hundred organs. Only last Monday The Chicago Tribune was saying:

"Governor Cox accepts the Covenant of the League of Nations as the paramount issue in this election and Republicans will be glad that he has done it."

Evidently the Republican mail collections of Republican opinion have been unsatisfactory. The issue on which the Lodgites and Borahites and Johnsonites planted their firm feet, swearing to prevail or perish, is suddenly whisked away by a conference of Republican sages. Mr. Chairman Will Hays, who has been at Marion, absorbing wisdom and corrupting his style, has confabulated with Mr. Harding. The cardinal issue, like Mr. Hay's earlier manner of speech, is suddenly unhinged. In a wild word-spout that will surprise and pain Mr. Meredith Nicholson and all other admirers of Indiana literature, the Chairman cries:

"It is squarely up to the electorate to indorse or repudiate the last seven years of Democratic maladministration in Washington, which to the vast majority of the citizenry of this country stands for a simple squandering of our great resources, a saturnalia of extravagance, a cataclysm of perverted purposes and broken promises, and, finally, an absolute betrayal of American rights and American interests."

Such is Mr. Hay's agitation that, in giving the order to right-about-face, he mixes Swinburne and Sir Boyle Roche and that once famous document of doom, the Ocala Platform, in a fearful and wonderful compound. He even so far forgets himself as to speak the word "citizenry," once used by the abhorred Mr. Wilson, to the irritation of all the Republican faithful. The Hoosier literati may be trusted to remonstrate with Mr. Hays and ask him not to expose himself too often to the dangers of Marion phraseology. Meanwhile, it is clear that something like a panic has seized the gods of the Republican campaign. In less nervous moments they must know that issues are made by the voters, not the candidates or the managers. Mr. Bryan's unhappy experience in paramounting issues cannot be forgotten, save temporarily, in Marion.

Moreover, this lightning change proves that the Senatorial grandees are finding that they misread badly the Republican mind. The Republican friends of the League of Nations are discovered to be so numerous that the issue of issues must be put in the background, veiled. The Harding-Hays prime policy and hoped-for watchword of harmony is merely, in effect, a Republican adaptation of Mr. Charles A. Dana's "Turn the Rascals Out." It is an effort to unite a wrangling and divided party on the noble platform of "Give the Republicans the offices," at least such of them as civil service reform, that evil work of Mr. Simon Cameron's "demand literary fellers," still leaves open to laborers in the political vineyard.

The administrative record of Mr. Wilson is one of so many undeniable and fruitful achievements that the Democrats need have no fear of Republican attacks on it. His constructive part in the League of Nations is a splendid part of that record. There is a great body of Independents and Republicans who regard that League and the adherence of the United States to it as the preponderant issue. This shifty bit of political conjuring in Marion will not change their deepseated opinion and conviction.

And how about the "bitter-enders"? Who is going to make the harmful necessary Hiram Johnson relent his rage against the League as the sum of all villainies? Who is going to put a hook in the jaw of that leviathan? Who will can the thunders of Borah, Brandegee, Moses, Knox, Lodge, and the whole corps of implacable anti-Covenanters? Trying to heal division, the Marion doctors have only inflamed it more. Wisdom seems to have departed from the Republican machinists. They are uncertain, weak, flabby, quick to put on goosefesh. As for that Republican Benjamin, Mr. Hays, the same fatal day shows him playing a queer political game and clothing his once engaging style in fustian.

Once-Overs

The World Takes You At Your Own Valuation

Don't consider yourself of little importance in your neighborhood, the club in your church, or in the place where you are employed.

On the other hand don't feel so important that you are egotistical.

If you belittle yourself others soon get to think you actually amount to very little, and if you are too pompous you will be hated or laughed at.

Every one carries a certain value in his or her community.

Every respectable, law-abiding, honest person has a right to a certain amount of consideration and courtesy, and you should demand and command what you are entitled to, no more and no less.

You must remember that others value you according to the value you set upon yourself, and the human quality was given you to serve a Creator's purpose and not merely that you should occupy space.

Make the most of your being in this world.

Hold your head and shoulders up and look every man in the face, fearlessly, eye to eye, and get rid of the notion that you are inferior to any other human being.

IRELAND, IRELAND

Down thy valleys, Ireland, Ireland
Down thy valleys green and sad,
Still thy spirit wanders wailing,
Wanders wailing, wanders mad.

Long ago that anguish took thee,
Ireland, Ireland, green and fair,
Spoilers strong in darkness took thee,
Broke thy heart and left thee there.

Down thy valleys, Ireland, Ireland,
Still thy spirit wanders mad;
All too late they love that wronged thee,
Ireland, Ireland, green and sad.

HENRY NEWBOLT.

TO PROTECT THE WORKER

The Trade Union movement is seeking to give every man a wage that will more than compensate for the H.C.L., and it is also combating with might and main the efforts of those energetic workers, who set out to try and earn the wage. Now that the unions are about to combine for the umtieth time, and to issue details as to just how much every man shall or shall not do, the following report should be of worldwide interest:

AS IT WILL BE

An influential deputation of trade union representatives called on the Premier on Tuesday last in order to draw attention to unsatisfactory features of the mathematical text-books now in use in the council schools throughout the country.

The spokesman brought instances to show that not only was the Trade Union movement treated with a lack of respect, but that many of its bed-rock principles were flouted in the text-books.

For instance, in Hall and Todhunter's Arithmetic there occurs the following problem:

"If A lays 400 bricks per day whilst B lays 350 bricks per day, how long will it take them working together to build a house consisting of 25,000 bricks?"

In the first place, it was obvious that as A was laying more bricks daily than his fellow-worker, the former must be a non-unionist. In that case, it was an insult to B, probably one of the keenest supporters of his union, to suggest that he would work alongside the other.

Again, 400 bricks per day was twice the quantity laid down in recent Trade Union Regulations.

Suggestions of this kind, insidiously instilled into the minds of the young, were bound to lead to an entirely false estimate of the basic principles of trade unionism, and to foster an economic heresy.

Other examples of a similar kind were to be found elsewhere in the text-books, and the deputation urged that the necessary amendments should be made. They added that feeling on the matter was particularly strong among the blanc-mange operatives, and that an unfavorable reply might easily lead to a national strike.

The Premier promised that the present issue of text books would be immediately withdrawn. In future editions in which such problems occurred, no attempt would be made to indicate the output or capacity of the workers. Instead blanks would be left which could afterwards be filled in according to the then existing rate of output.

For their part the deputation promised to keep the Education Board informed as to the weekly decisions of the unions as to the maximum amount of work permitted to each operative.

A. P. GARLAND.

NOCTURNE

Do you remember when upon the Nile
We followed Egypt's barge, in our small boat?
Just now, as then, the roses near your throat
Nodded: just now, as then, I saw you smile.
Your eyes were on the queen, but mine the while
Saw only you, swathed in the selfsame note
Of color worn to-night. That time remote,
And all its glory, mile on gorgeous mile,
Seems come again to exercise its might.
Who doubts but that our love is wondrous old?
True love is everlasting, full of power,
Its vital roots run deep into the mold
Of centuries; in every age, its flower,
Newborn, remembering back, communes with light

The Republican Party And The League

BY HAMILTON HOLT
(From The Independent)

The preamble of the Republican platform ends with the statement that "the people are entitled to know in definite terms" how the party proposes to solve the "grave problems" confronting them.

The gravest problem confronting the Republican party is the League of Nations. Indeed it is the gravest problem confronting the American people. With hundreds of thousands of voters it will doubtless be the decisive factor in determining which party they will cast their ballot for at the November elections.

In what "definite terms" then does the Republican platform explain the League of Nations and how does the Republican party propose to solve the question.

The plank is a marvel of adroitness. It stoutly defends the senatorial factions which poison-gassed the treaty, and yet a careful scrutiny of the exact words employed reveals the astonishing fact that not a single statement appears in the entire document that would prevent a Republican President and Senate from ratifying the Covenant in toto or entering the League of Nations without reservations. In other words, the Republican nominee is encouraged to attack whatever stand the Democrats take in defending the Covenant, and then, if elected, he will be free to bring the United States into the League of Nations whenever the political exigencies of the hour make such a course advisable. The plank, therefore, is a pure straddle and while seeming to meet the issue, it really defers defining it till after the election, putting into the hands of the candidate, in the meantime a blank check on which he is free to draw Republican support for any kind of League he wants or for no league at all.

What, then, exactly does the platform say on this paramount issue? Let me take it up point by point for it was written by Elihu Root and anything that master mind has produced is worth discussing in detail:

The Republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world.

So far, so good. Everybody stands for international co-operation whether it be denominated agreement, or association, alliance, league, covenant or what not.

We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice.

The preamble of the Covenant says the same. The purpose of the League, to use the exact phrase, is the "maintenance of justice."

And must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of the public right by development of law and the decision of impartial courts.

Public right is likewise fully mainthined in the Covenant. What else are the Assembly and the Council for? They can "deal with any matter affecting the peace of the world"? And as for an "impartial court," Article XIV especially provides for one. It is curious to note in this connection that Elihu Root himself is now in Europe engaged in the laudable effort of establishing this very court. Indeed, had it not been for the existing League of Nations, whose creation Mr. Root did so little to help and so much to hinder, America's foremost international jurist would not now be enjoying the happiness of helping to bring into reality his life's dream.

And which shall secure instant and general international conference whenever peace shall be threatened, by political action so that the nations pledged to do and insist on what is just and fair, may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war.

Nothing here either that the League does not also do. The Covenant says the Council shall meet "as occasion may require," and wherever war threatens "the League shall take any action deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of the world." Indeed, there is no choice but for instant and general international conference" when war clouds threaten, for the Secretary "in case of emergency shall forthwith summon a meeting of the Council."

Note also the use of the drastic words "pledge" and "power." If these mean anything they mean that the Republicans are prepared to do exactly as Mr. Wilson's Covenant proposes we should do, that is "pledge" ourselves to use our "power" to prevent war. We should rejoice that the Republicans, too, believe in a League with teeth in it.

We believe that can be done without compromise of national independence.

Mere camouflage to make the voter think the present League limits the independence of its members. Of course, every one who has even casually read the Covenant knows that the dominant purpose of the League is to safeguard the independence of its members. What else do the guarantees in Article X and XVI mean?

Without depriving the people of the United States in advance of the right to determine for themselves what is just and fair when the occasion arises and without involving them as participants and not as peace makers in a multitude of quarrels the merits of which they are unable to judge.

When "the occasion arises" the Assembly or Council, under the Covenant, discuss it to determine what is to be done, but we cannot be "involved" as participants whether by making war on recalcitrant members or by exerting economic pressure unless and until in every case Congress approves. Indeed, were the United States made a "participant" in action under the League, as this sentence of the plank implies the Constitution of the United States would be clearly violated, since Congress has the sole power to declare war and make appropriations, etc. As no Senator has as yet pointed out a single instance in which the Covenant as violated the Constitution—and nobody will deny they would have done so if they could—we may fairly assume that we cannot become "involved" without our consent, the implications of the Republican platform to the contrary notwithstanding.

As to the merits of controversies "of which the people know nothing." I respectfully ask if there is any better way to inform them than by the publication of the facts at issue after an impartial inquiry by an official international body endowed with full powers of getting at the truth such as no private individual or group could hope to emulate.

The Covenant signed by the President at Paris failed signally to accomplish this purpose and contained stipulations not only intolerable for an independent people but certain to produce injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it is proposed to prevent.

No specifications here—pure political hocus pocus.

The Covenant repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable the time honored policy in favor of peace declared by Washington, and Jefferson and Monroe and pursued by all American administrators for more than a century.

More partisan bunk. On the contrary the work of Wilson in federating the nations bears an astonishingly close analogy to the work of Washington in federating the thirteen American states into our present union. Said the father of his country when the Constitution was up for adoption: "Should the states reject the excellent Constitution the probability is that an opportunity will never again offer to create another in peace. The next will be drawn in blood."

Jefferson's warning against "entangling alliances" was uttered in the days before steam and electricity had annihilated time and space and when Richmond and Boston were farther from New York than are Rome and Tokio today. The United States was then indeed isolated. Now we became involved in a world war despite all we could do to keep out. Will any one deny that in the next war we shall go in at the beginning, League or no League?

As for Monroe and his Doctrine it is demonstrable that the Covenant has impaired the Monroe Doctrine in no smallest particular. On the contrary it has actually glorified it. Apparently the Chicago plank carpenters never heard of Article XXI of the Covenant by which for the first time in history the Monroe Doctrine is definitely accepted by all the nations as a principle of international law.

And it ignored the universal sentiments of America for generations past in favor of international law and arbitration and it rested the hope of the future on mere expediency and negotiation.

Moonshine! The Covenant provides in Articles III, IV, XIV and XV for the development of international law. Moreover as the nations entering the League agree among other things to arbitrate their differences, abolish secret treaties, limit armaments, champion minorities and backward peoples improve labor conditions, extend commerce and promote science, it would seem as though the League were not founded wholly on "expediency" or "negotiation."

The unfortunate insistence of the President upon having his own way without any change and without any regard to the opinion of the majority of the Senate, which shares with him in the treaty making power, and the President's demand that the treaty should be ratified without modification, created a situation in which the Senate were required to vote upon their consciences and their oaths according to their judgment upon the treaty as it was presented, or submit to the commands of a dictator in a matter where the authority under the Constitution was theirs and not his.

Here we come to the kernel of the cocoanut. It is not the League so much as the "dictator" President, the Republicans hate. To be sure, in his speech of the 8th of last January the President said "There can be no reasonable objections to the interpretations accompanying the act of ratification. But when the Treaty is acted upon I must know whether it means that we have ratified or rejected it." But I suppose a little thing like accuracy must not be insisted upon too rigidly in a political platform.

I repeat here what I have said before—namely that the President should have compromised with the Senate when a majority voted against him the second time. A minority cannot perpetually hold up a majority in a democracy. The President must therefore take his share of the blame for the present impasse. But the Senate is the chief offender in the disgraceful quarrel and every candid man knows it. And what have Woodrow Wilson's psychological peculiarities got to do with the case anyway?

The only question before the Senate was whether the twenty-six articles of the Covenant were good or bad for the American people. Woodrow Wilson will die some day. But the Republic will live. The personal traits of one of the authors of the Treaty have nothing to do with the merits of the issue.

The Senators performed their duty faithfully. We approve their conduct and honor their courage and fidelity.

Maybe so, and yet did not something happen the other day to these implacable foes of the Treaty, Senators Reed and Shields? Did not the good people of Missouri and Tennessee express themselves rather forcibly on the matter? Perhaps there is a warning here to Brandegee of Connecticut, Gore of Oklahoma, Moses of New Hampshire, Sherman of Illinois, Wadsworth of New York, and Penrose of Pennsylvania, and the other "bitter enders" who will come up for re-election this autumn.

And we pledge the coming Republican administration to such agreement with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilisation and humanity in accordance with American ideal and without surrendering the right of the American people to exercise its power in favor of justice and peace.

Then why in heaven's name didn't the party endorse the League of Nations? There is no other alternative before the world except the League which is now a going concern and which has in its membership every nation on earth except Russia, Mexico, Bulgaria, Austria Turkey, Germany and the United States. No Senator nor group of Senators, no association of experts, no political party has suggested a better League. And the reason they have not is the simple reason that they cannot. Any committee of competent men if given the task of framing a League of Nations for the maintenance of peace and order and public right will come within 95 percent of the plan worked out by Woodrow Wilson and his associates at Paris between February 3 and February 14, 1919. Only within the League of Nations will the people of the United States have opportunity "to meet the full duty of America for civilisation." And as for the danger of our "surrendering the right to exercise" our "power" in favor of justice and peace, it so happens that Article XVI states it is the "fundamental right of each member of the League" to take up with the other members any matter affecting international relations "which threatens to disturb either the peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends." Thus the League, as the Republican party would amply guarantee the United States in its right to "exert" its power for "peace and justice."

This then is the paramount plank upon which Warren G. Harding will fight his forthcoming campaign. What a renunciation of leadership by the "party of moral ideas" when face to face with the gravest issue that has confronted the country since the adoption of the Constitution!

Bringing Back Sunken Treasure

Untold millions in gold and silver and other precious commodities have been sunk during the war by submarines and otherwise. Naturally, men at once set their brains to work to try to recover some of this treasure, particularly in those waters where sunken ships are strewn the thickest. Bradstreet's reports that sunken treasure worth $200,000,000 has now been raised around the British Isles. It continues:

The Restorer and the Reliant, two salving vessels that were bought by a British concern from the American Navy, have a new device, an oxyacetylene flame, which is worked under water for cutting holes in the sides of submerged vessels.

Each ship has twenty-five electric pumps capable of pumping one million gallons of water an hour, and carries two divers, search-lights, line-throwing guns, electric welding plants, rock drills, and other accessories. Each diver is equipped with a telephone.

"One leads where many follow."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper

Bench Mark One of Most Scientific Tokens of Civilisation and Should Be Respected by All Travelers

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest)

Joyful Summer riders in automobiles, seeing more of their country in a day than some of their ancestors saw in a lifetime, occasionally find themselves, in the hilly States, breasting the diamond-clear air on the high curves of a commanding eminence which overlooks many square miles of the surrounding regions, and forms an impression of "the kingdoms of this world" that will linger, an unfading picture, in the memory.

And if such persons pause under the shade of a clump of far-seen, sky-aspiring elms, and clamber to the tip-top of the hill, they may come upon an official-looking, marked and lettered stone, which the inhabitants thereabouts will tell them, with an air of mingled pride and respect, is a "government bench-mark."

A bench-mark is one of the most convincing tokens of scientific civilisation. Whatever world possesses bench-marks has visual evidence to show that it is inhabited, or has been inhabited, by creatures of a high order of imagination, for a bench-mark is a symbol of planet measurement in three dimensions. It is a proof that, by mental operation, the level of the ocean has been extended under the land and across the continents, and that hills and mountains hundreds or thousands of miles from the nearest shore have been stood upon it as upon a floor, and their relative elevations measured with mathematical accuracy.

In a word, a bench-mark tells how high the spot where it stands is, not above its immediate surroundings, but above the common base of the terrestrial living world—i. e., the surface of the all-encompassing sea. "Surface" here refers to the mean level of the sea, and not to its level at either high or low tide.

The placing of bench-marks must to one of the most fascinat- occupations that men have found for utilising their time on the earth. It is the work of engineers, and an engineer is an adventurer in the completest sense of the word.

He is pioneer, traveller, pathfinder, explorer, wayfarer, mountaineer, seeing everything, doing everything, prepared for everything, an athlete in body and mind, an adept in observation and in calculation, using the astronomer's stars, the surveyor's chains and staves, the climber's ropes, the farmer's spade, the miner's pick, the mariner's compass, the cook's pot and pan, the hunter's rifle, the fisherman's lure, the boatman's oars, the woodman's axe, besides possessing a working knowledge of geology, mineralogy, botany and at least first-aid medicine and surgery—in short, a true "all-around man," a credit to his planet. There are times when I wish that fortune had made me an engineer. No engineer was ever candidate for President; his life is too interesting.

Now, when you stand beside some lofty bench-mark, engulfed in the high-rolling wave of Summer wind, try to look straight down through the hill and see the blue sea-level surface ideally extended beneath it, and forming its mathematical base, which places it on a common platform with all the mighty heights of the world—Andes, Himalayas, Kuen Luns, Rockies—and then picture the engineer and the level-finder of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, when laboriously, systematically, with hand and eye and brain working in perfect co-ordination, he lifted a parallel of the sea surface to the roof of the continent.

SEA CURVES WITH GLOBE

Step by step such work has to be done. The globe curves and the sea curves with it. The engineer must eliminate the effect of the curvature, so that at every stage the plumb line is normal to the line of sight over the level. His multitude of little tangent lines, each successively higher or lower, as the land rises or falls, blend into a smooth curve in calculation, and so follow the profile of the globe.

If he had brought a bit of the sea along with him it would have balanced itself gravitationally level at every observation point. But from point to point it would have been lifted higher above the level of the great sea. If the sea should suddenly swell and rise and overflow the continent, its surface would, in succession, flow a sparking film of water, over each higher and higher bench-mark on the hills, until it flooded the highest of them all, and left America submerged under a spherical water surface, the tip of its nose in the Rockies just breaking the smooth shield with a sparkling ripple at the touch of a breeze.

The mean set-level ought to be the datum plane for all surveying; but, unfortunately, it is not universally used. I learn from Mr. E. Lester Jones, the superintendent of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, that there are cities and even States in the Union which use datums of their own, a custom calculated to cause confusion, and ultimately great trouble and expense for correction.

In New York, forsooth, the public work datum plane is nearly three feet above the mean sea-level as determined by actual observation at Sandy Hook, and the Dock Department datum is over two feet below that standard.

Character, Not Capital, First Need In Starting Business

By Dr. Wm. A McKeever

(Professor in the University of Kansas, Author of "Teaching the Boy to Save," "Teaching the Girl to Save.")

Six years ago this month a young man, twenty-one, and recently out of high school, secured work at a bench in a little shoe shop at $15 per week. He went at his new duties with determination to apply himself faithfully to master the business and to get ahead financially.

In two years this clear-eyed young man—let us call him Mr Jones—bought out the shop, mostly on time, cleaned it up and started to make it a place of highest respectability. Every corner was brightened, all the furnishings polished, the walls painted white, an easy chair and a couch placed for waiting customers, a system of checking the work as it came in was perfected and a few new modern pieces of machinery installed.

But the thing which won for Mr. Jones was his personal integrity. And, beside having a shoe repair shop, clean and attractive as a good living room and provided with all modern machinery, he has saved to date $10,000 from his income. Let us examine this interesting personality and discover if possible the secret of success. For I firmly believe that any ordinary young man can likewise succeed through the same methods.

First of all, Mr. Jones selected a kind of work that seemed attractive. Second, he gave little thought to wages and more to his personal conduct. He at once became so regular and reliable that one might set a clock by his movements. Every stroke was made to count. Third, he showed a friendly interest in all comers and found time to engage them in a word of pleasant conversation. Fourth, his manner and bearing were always suggestive of the courteous gentleman. Fifth, he made good every promise. "Your work will be ready at 4 p.m. tomorrow," for example, meant just that. And so it was with every detail.

Here is a shoe repair shop where the best and smartest people of a city came more and more numerously to have their work done, simply because the shop and its owner displayed character.

Now, young man, you can emulate Mr. Jones, and perhaps surpass him. Not capital but character is what you need for a start. Drop your whining, your shiftlessness, and get down to business. Forget about highest wages and shortest hours and happiest times out at night for the present while you bend every energy possible toward putting character into some very common work or business until it reflects your personality and shines with the light of your refreshing soul.

Give more than you get, stay overtime occasionally to perfect some point, defend the manager's interests, study his customers and learn how to treat them most humanly. There are no necessary tricks in any honest trade. It is personality, hard work, faithful service, keen application of your whole self to the duties at hand. In short, the basis of your future wealth and well being is your character.

Now, go to it, my young friend, and win as Mr. Jones has so well done.
